WARD'S Patent Grapple.

THIS GRAPPLE WAS INVENTED BY

Moses N. Ward,

OF BANGOR,

And patented December 15, 1868.

TO STRENGTH, SIMPLICITY, and FACILITY OF USE it is far superior to any thing of the kind ever invented.

It is wonderful in its application to every form of object to which it is brought to be applied, taking a certain hold of logs, barrels, boxes and bales, with quick dispatch.

No Mill, no Vessel, no Store, nor Store House, should be without it.

It is indispensable to every ship builder, and every wharf builder. In fact, this Grapple is invaluable wherever there are heavy articles to be grappled, hoisted and moved.

All persons interested in the use of the Grapple, are invited to call and examine the Patent Grapple at the store of the manufacturers.

EVENING DESPATCHES.

FROM WASHINGTON.

NEW YORK, June 1.

The Times' special from Washington this dispatch says:—

The information at the State Department shows conclusively that the Brazilian and Argentine authorities, who control the La Plata below Assunchon, interrupted Minister McMahon's dispatches.

McMahon was at Assunsion on the first of April. After that he descended the river and joined Lopez.

The allies were unmistakably interested in preventing a just representation of Lopez's affairs reaching the United States, and hence their efforts to open his mails, and interrupt his dispatches.

The State Department will, in a short time, call the attention of the Brazilian and Argentine governments to the above facts.

Conspicuous Act of Generosity.

NEW YORK, June 1.

The Tribune's special from Washington this dispatch says:—

A wealthy Englishman, said to have been at one time a member of Parliament, who was a conspicuous friend of the United States in Congress during the rebellion, bequeathed a large amount of the early issues of 5-20 bonds. Some time ago he began a correspondence with the Treasury Department in reference to the interest on the bonds, during his lifetime, at Manchester. He said he thought the 5 per cent. gold interest too high, and offered to pay between the 1st of July and 1st of January, the difference between the gold interest and the amount of the coupons, which he forwarded to the Secretary of the Treasury. He received another letter from the gentleman, dated at a point in Pennsylvania, referring to the previous correspondence, and enclosing a one thousand dollar coupon, which he returned to the government as a gift, not for the past, and indicated a desire to have the matter arranged in the future that he can divide the interest with the government each year, retaining 3 per cent on it.

Mr. Dunway has answered his letter, thanking the old lady for her generosity, and asking him to visit Washington to confer that the matter may be arranged as he desires.

Appointment.

WASHINGTON, June 1.

The President has made the following appointments:—

Wm. A. Pile, Governor of New Mexico.

Christopher Columbus Cummings, Consul at Chembro.

Wm. M. Kendall, Postmaster at Plymouth, Ind.

Mr. Motley in England.

NEW YORK, June 1.

The London Star, in an allusion to the reception of Mr. Motley in Liverpool, says that it is asserted on the best authority that Mr. Motley comes charged with a mission of peace, and for the purpose of conciliation and binding closer the ties of friendship between the two nations.

The writer entirely repudiates the statement that have been promulgated to the effect that the Minister comes armed with authority to demand an immediate settlement of the Alabama claims. This statement is regarded merely as a newspaper "boom" the Star not having the slightest authority to speak on behalf of the Minister.

Mr. Motley arrived in London at 8:30.

Pure White Lead,

Of superior quality, and rated it to an extreme degree of fineness, whiter color and body. It is superior to all other Lead in use, and warranted strictly pure. The manufacturer, Mr. D. G. Batchelder, has had twenty years experience in the business in this city, and in New York, and the Lead manufactured under his supervision has always stood the highest, where it was best known. The Lead sold by the Company last year gave universal satisfaction, and the demand for it this season proves conclusively that it is appreciated.

The Company also manufacture other qualities of Lead, which will be warranted equal, if not superior, to any other Lead in the market, at the prices at which they are sold.

They also manufacture LEAD PIPE of superior quality.

In all cases their prices are as low as those of any other manufacturers for goods of equal quality.

The Reform League and the Tariff.

The Reform League of Boston has issued its circular setting forth its plan for future action and the principles which it proposes to engraft upon the legislation of the country. To the theories of the Reform League we have nothing to oppose; they are, as a whole, good. Claiming the natural condition of commerce to demand the nearest approximation to free trade, they yet hold that our condition is not such as to admit of regulations which otherwise might be desirable. They oppose special or class legislation. They favor a regular, moderate payment of the national debt. They favor the promotion of fraternal trade between the States of the continent. They desire to reform the civil service, and they desire to return to specie payments and favorable legislation to that end as fast as possible.

These sentiments are not new, and under more favorable circumstances, would not be objectionable. But under our present circumstances, it is difficult to adjust a tour commercial relations with particular regard to every interest. And this leads us to inquire, what can the Reform League of Boston accomplish for the country more than and other local institutions? The men who figure in the society are practical men of all parties; they are men extensively connected in business, who have interests to guard. Yet they are, like all similar associations of business men, local in their views, and to a great extent must be influenced against other local interests. For example, while there are many communities that would reap great advantages from reciprocal free trade with the States of the North American continent, and while, to that proposition, as an abstract principle there is no objection, yet it is very soon met by other communities that might be temporarily damaged by some portion of such policy, and many more communities would demand that their interests be forwarded by the adoption of similar measures towards the States of South America and Europe. Again, the League circular says that "the true policy of the government is to seek to aid the manufacturing interest by enabling it to produce goods cheaply," and "to this end, raw materials, machinery, fuel, and lumber should be exempted from duty." While this is good doctrine for New England, how can we fill the purse of the opposing opinions of the South and West—how shall we ignore the coal interests of Pennsylvania and local industries elsewhere?

The fact is that, supposing our present tariff arrangements to be defective in some instances, we do not believe the Boston Reform League is calculated to remedy the evil. Acknowledging the country to be burdened to an unusual degree, this burden must be borne by all sections as nearly as possible alike. In what respect does this League propose general relief? Were its organization to be extended to a national character, how long would it be before its councils would become as effectually divided as various interest are dividing?

While, therefore, we love the platform of the League to be generally excellent, we have little faith in its efficacy to reform existing evils. Its influence may be good and powerful as representing the demands of a locality; but for the nation it can scarcely be regarded as an impetus. We believe Congress has represented the interest of the whole country in the adjustment of the tariff, and that wherever new light may expose errors or unreasonable burdens, they will be readily corrected. The interest of every part will be promptly consulted and considered as far as possible having regard for the good of the whole.

The very extravagance and madness with which the English press undertook to fright on the American Government, from its position upon the Alabama question, has effectually neutralized its own force. The Administration, we believe, has never contemplated war with England, but it will take a firm stand upon this as upon all other questions. If the English people do not meet this sentiment candidly, no overtures will be accepted. Our government can well afford to bide its time. It has the united support of nearly all sections in this position. As the New York Times aptly remarks:—"The end is clear and not distant. We are united, and strong, with a strong and prudent leader. We should not be surprised at the wrath of the English press. Let us be prudent and forbearing, firm and just. We have peace and shall continue to have it. And we shall have full compensation and an apology as well in due time."

The American Institute of Homeopathy will hold its twenty-second session at Horticultural Hall, Boston, May 8th, 9th, 10th and 11th, 1869. The annual address will be given on the evening of the 8th at 8 o'clock, in the same hall, by Prof. Ludlam, M. D., of Chicago.

The London Daily News thinks "it will soon be found that nothing is wanting on the part of England, either in readiness or desire to clear the score between us." Exactly. That is just what we propose to wait for... England's future safety depends necessarily upon an early settlement of this question, and she will soon display her anxiety about it.

The Cubans and Cuban sympathizers in Washington are reported in high spirits.—Three additional cargoes of arms and ammunition have been safely landed in Cuba, with strong prestige that a North Ba safely reached its destination, the effect of which they say is already perceptible in the fights according to Spanish admission.

The Duty of Temperance Men in the Gubernatorial Canvass.

To the Editors of the Daily Whig:

I am a radical temperance man and a radical Republican, and therefore read with a good deal of interest the statements of your correspondent "Quidam" with reference to the position of the temperance men of this State in the gubernatorial canvass now pending. Speaking with confidence with reference to the attitude which will be assumed by the great body of the temperance men, he says that they will (1) stand aloof from the political caucuses and conventions and make no effort to secure the nomination of an acceptable candidate for Governor, that (2) they will not consider themselves bound to support the nominee of the Bangor Convention, and (3) that if an anti-temperance man is nominated at Bangor, the temperance men will make an independent nomination. I hope that "Quidam" is wrong in asserting this to be the general determination of the temperance men of this State, for I regard such a position as inconsistent with their duties both as temperance men and as Republicans. It places them in the unreasonable attitude of demanding of the Republican party a nomination which they refuse any adequate guarantee to secure.

The temperance men have lately claimed that the Republican organization in Maine is of right a temperance party, that in its infancy it committed itself to the principle of legal prohibition of the liquor traffic, that to its espousal of this cause it is indebted for very much of the moral strength that was rallied to its support, that the great body of the temperance men have always given it their strong support, constitute a large portion of its best brain and best energy, and have contributed largely to its success; that the Republican party owes to this important portion of its support a due to its own faithfulness to a principle long since inscribed upon its banners, to the demands of the hour and the great moral interests involved, to take a position and make a nomination that shall express to the just claims of the great question of temperance and prohibition. But suppose the claim, how shall they seek to achieve the desired result? How is it proposed to make the Republican party faithful to its pledges? It seems to be inconsistent and fatal to attempt to do it by withdrawing from the councils of the party, they are most vital to the ends of right and justice. Temperance men complain that politicians have disregarded the just claims of the temperance cause, but one reason why they have done so, is that temperance men have not been sufficiently faithful to their political duties, and have often left to mere politicians the management of affairs over which they might have exerted an important influence, if not a substantial control.

Temperance men complain that the Republican party has not done its duty to them, but before they leave it they should be certain that, as Republicans, they have done their duty to the party. It does not seem wise that temperance men should withdraw and leave the control of party caucuses and conventions entirely to indifferent, intemperance and hostile men, and then demand that those caucuses and conventions should act in the interests of temperance.

The earnest temperance men of Maine have resolved upon a platform that may be expressed in four words—The Maine Law—enforced!

As a temperance man I endorse and stand by this platform. Loading Republicans everywhere, and specially intimated with the temperance cause, will tell you that the principle of the legal prohibition of the liquor traffic has been fearlessly votes and under Republican legislation become recognized and undisputed policy of this State. This being so, we have only to ask such men why they are disposed to recognize the claims of the temperance men at the present time. If they are so disposed, it can only be because they find no opposition in Benjamin Stubbins, who was a friend of the Maine Law, but opposed its enforcement!

It is due to the temperance men, to the temperance cause, to its own integrity and faithfulness, that the Republican party should nominate a true temperance man at its Convention in your city, on the 24th of June. Let the temperance men claim this, both as temperance men and as Republicans. As Republicans let them go into the caucuses and Convention and labor faithfully to the best of their ability to secure this result. It is a party Republican, which form a strong and sterling portion of the party, and who have faithfully labored to achieve its victories in the past, that temperance men have the strongest claim for consideration. At the hands of the Bangor Convention, and not at mere standard, steel and cutting off all responsibility for the actions of the party. Let them not desert the Republican ranks in advance in antic pation of a refusal of their just claims, which may be made by the Convention, but let them labor faithfully in their party, so that they may exert an active influence, and leave it when, and only when, it has taken action which precludes them giving it further support. Taking this position, and using all their influence to shape its action in faithfulness to the demands of the hour, they will have a stronger cause to call them to appeal from the decision of the party than can party, than if they made no effort to secure that decision in the interests of right and justice.

But it will be said that if temperance men go into the caucuses or Conventions, they will thereby commit themselves to abide by the action of the latter body, even though it should put forth a candidate and enunciate principles repugnant to their earnest convictions of duty. I believe this a false principle. It is a rule that is proper with reference to personal preference for candidates, or opinions as to non-essential measures, but not further. Shall a man refrain from laboring to ensure the nomination of his party to right principles from the fear that it will commit a wrong, which he is not bound to endorse, because he has labored to aver it? I do not submit to such an interpretation of practical duty. Caucuses and Conventions are the places in which the temperance men should unite and stand for fidelity of the Republican party to the cause of right and justice. Let them claim their rights and exercise their duties as temperance men, as Republicans, and as citizens anxious for the peace and welfare of the State, and if duty calls them to separate from their former political associates in casting their votes for a Governor of the State, let them do it frankly and squarely, but only when they have proved their earnestness and their fidelity by doing all in their power to avert the necessity.

Rockland, May 29th, 1869.

John A. Andrews, who was one of the leaders in the draft riot in New York in 1863, and was sent to State Prison for three years for that offence, tried to defend a person in the New York Court of Special Session on Thursday, but Judge Dowling summarily put him down, telling him that he could not practice in that court. Andrews tried to explain, but the judge would not hear a word of his explanation.

Mr. Motley.

Mr. Motley, the new Minister of the United States to England, received no excess of the Chamber of Commerce at a feast in Liverpool Monday morning. In reply to toast of the American Chamber of Commerce, he returned thanks for the welcome he had received at the hands of the representatives of the United States. He said he was the earnest hope and chief wish of President Grant's Administration and of the people of America to cultivate faithfully friendly and equitable relations with the government and people of Great Britain. The happiness of the world, the advancement of civilization, and the best hope of humanity depended on the cultivation of the spirit of the human family—more especially of the two leading nations, united by blood and kindred, commerce and the continuation of the reign of peace. Mr. Motley concluded by saying "My most earnest endeavors shall be directed to further good understanding on the basis of enduring friendship and kindly relations in accordance with the great principles of justice and honor, which are the mainstay and glory alike of our country and the common law."

In answer to the address of the Liverpool Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Motley expressed his high appreciation of their friendly sentiment toward America and said in the time during the period of his office he would endeavor to promote a good understanding between the two nations of the same race, bound by many ties of consanguinity, blood, language, and literature. It was the earnest wish of America to avoid controversies, if possible, and to maintain the Great Britain on the basis of justice and disposition to regard for the rights and interests of others

Gov. Curtin has received his instructions and will sail for his post at St. Petersburg in a few days. The President and Secretary Fish were very particular in their suggestions to Mr. Curtin that he should impress upon the Czar that the friendship to our Government is appreciated and reciprocated.

It is a sufficient answer to the gross lies about the poor character of some of Gen. Grant's appointments to show that the current revenue since they were in office exhibit a large increase over the corresponding week of last year, and this while taxes have not been increased and everybody is complaining of dull times.

It will be remembered that Senator Grimes was not in the Senate Chamber when Mr. Sumner made his great speech, he having left for Europe the week previous. It is certainly not correct, as reported by Mr. Grimes, that the injunction of secrecy was removed at Mr. Sumners request. It was well understood at the time that it was the unanimous desire of the Senate that the speech should be made public.

The election of a board of Directors for the Union Pacific Railroad, was held in Boston on Tuesday, under the recent act of Congress, when the following gentlemen were chosen unanimously: Oliver Ames, Benj. E. Bates, Sidney Dillon, O. H. Mc-Cormick of New York, Wm. T. Glidden, C. H. Bushnell, F. C. Dexter, R. C. Hazard, H. Atkins, C. A. Lombard, O. S. Chapman, E. H. Baker, John R. Duff and N. Nickerson. BANGOR LUMBER MARKET. Amount of lumber surveyed from Jan. 1, to June 1, 1869, compared with the amount surveyed during the same period in 1867 and 1868:

	1867.	1868.	1869.
Green Pine	2,615,[illegible]	[illegible]	2,[illegible]
Dry Pine	4,[illegible]	1,[illegible]	3,[illegible]
Spruce	13,[illegible]	1[illegible]	18,[illegible]
Hemlock, &c	1,[illegible]	1,967,231	2,450,240
	21,[illegible]	2,[illegible]	22,[illegible]

Surveyor's Office, June 1, 1869.

We had a shower ... shower yesterday morning. Although lasting but a short time, more water fell than we recollect of ever falling in a given period. The cesspools at the street corners were insufficient to take off the great body of water, which ran through the gutters, and the surplus water did considerable damage to gravel side-walks and embankments. We were forcibly reminded of a shower, that an old salt who used to sail out of our river delighted in telling of. He was coming home from Cuba and while crossing the Gulf Stream, a heavy shower arose. How heavy may be inferred from the fact that a water cask which stood upon deck and had lost both heads, received the water into the bung faster than the hold could vent it, and the cask overflowed. It was not quite so bad ... that.

Attention is called to the advertisement in another column of Stickney's New York Circus, which will visit Bangor ... few days. We papers elsewhere speak in high terms of this entertainment. The manager deserves credit for the full tricks of the trade, and offers a novel attraction in the endeavor to convince himself to legitimate acts in order to give the worth of your money.

THE STEREOPTICON, which has been exhibited the week past to the great delight of our lovers of art and history, gave its last exhibition last evening to a full house. After the usual entertainment had closed, the exhibition would be nightly ... and displayed the great masterpieces of art which was attended by a large number of our leading and appreciative citizens, who, of course, were highly pleased. Prof. Cromwell goes from here to Augusta, and then to Biddeford, which will close his exhibitions for this season. We cordially recommend this exhibition to our friends in those cities as eminently worthy of their patronage.

DECORATION AT KENDUSKEAG. Post Daniel Webster, No. 19, G. A. R., of Kenduskeag, observed Sunday, May 30th, with appropriate memorial decorations. The procession was formed by John H. Everett, Commander, at their Head Quarters in the following order: Grand Army, Good Templars, Citizens.

The procession moved to the Cemetery where prayer was offered by Rev. T. B. Robinson.

E. F. Crane, Esq., was called for, and responded with appropriate remarks, and giving the R. of all soldiers, whose graves were decorated with flowers, evergreens and flags, and also of those who died or fell on the battle-field.

Remarks were made by Rev. T. B. Robinson, Dr. Uriah Clark, of Boston, and Col. O. K. Nason, of Kenduskeag; and an eloquent address was delivered by Rev. Thomas Cooper, for which we regret we have not room.

Appropriate music was given by the Choir, closing with the hymn, "My Country 'tis of Thee." Brevity.

—We learn that the body of William H. Seven, the boy who was drowned at Kenduskeag on the morning of the 11th of April, was found on Monday, about a mile below the village, and buried. The features were much mutilated, and the whole body in a bad state.

MEMORIAL DAY AT EMPEROR'S was observed on Sunday. By direction of Post No. 12, Comrades Geo. O. Tabous and A. B. Farrar, went up to ask the citizens in the appropriate exercises. Prayer was offered by Duncan Dodge, and Mr. G. S. Cummings made some fitting remarks. Pieces were recited by two young ladies, the Misses Milk and Nellie Spinner, and the exercises were interspersed by singing. The graves were very handsomely decorated, and the occasion was very pleasant.

A LITTLE GIRL DROWNED.—A Medway correspondent says a little girl five years old, daughter of Chas. Wharton, was drowned in the river at that place on Sunday. She had on when the accident occurred, a home-made dress with red and blue stripes that ran around the waist, and a blue frock. Her hair is brown. At the water I high, she has without doubt gone below on the river. Any one finding a body answering this description, will please send information to Daniel Webster, Esq., Medway, Me.

—A correspondent of the Lewiston Journal says the old graveyard south of the Baptist church is to be turned into a public ground. The greater portion of the bodies have already been removed to Pine Grove Cemetery; the work will be completed in season for grading in the fall.

DECORATIONS IN WATERVILLE. The people of Waterville decorated the soldiers' graves Saturday in good style. The procession was formed of members of the College and the Cadets of Temperance, under the command of Major Richardson. The exercises at the Cemetery consisted of prayer, singing, and reading of the poem, "Home for the Brave." We learn that similar exercises took place at Kendall's Mills Sunday afternoon. An oration was delivered at the monument grounds by Gen. Seldon Connor.

—Money and houses are both scarce in Ellsworth. Somebody will have to patronize the lumbermen and others soon, or there will be no place for those who are desirous of becoming citizens, to live in, says the American.

—Col. F. D. Sewall, formerly of the 19th Maine Regiment and Secretary of the Second Army Corps Association, has issued a circular, urging every officer who served the fortunes of the Second Corps, to make unusual efforts to be present at the annual meeting of the Association, to be held in New York on the 4th of July.

—The Biddeford Dumbcrat says Mark F. Wentworth has been appointed Store Clerk in the Bureau of Yards and Docks at Kittery Navy Yard, and not General Inspector of the Yard, as has been heretofore announced.

Full prospectuses are published of the preparations now being made in New York by Mr. Chevalier for his aerial voyage to Europe ... the middle of July. He intends to save the gas which is only escape when ... great a height is reached, by storing it in ... compressed balloon, to be ... to ... when the gas has contracted ... cool ... By means of a long rope which will usually drag on the surface of the sea, he ... to accomplish sixty miles ... It will enable him to note the height and direction of the balloon, will carry as ballast, to be thrown out when the balloon descends or is covered with water from the ocean, and ... Valved in sufficient to weight it when it ... far above the earth. M. Chevalier has an abiding faith in the northwest current which he believes will take him safely ... Europe. The balloon, L'Esperance, is ninety-five feet high, sixty-five feet in diameter, and has a buoyancy capable of supporting eight persons. He has made a great many ascensions, and is one of the most accomplished aeronauts in the world. He is a Russian by birth and about 35 years old.

The New England Women's Club met at Chickering Hall, Boston, Saturday. The Club seems to have performed quite a considerable work. The subject of a Horticultural School for women has been discussed, and definite plans adopted for putting it into practical operation. The school will certainly be established, but no yet no definite time can be set for its commencement. A prominent Chicagoan has pledged $30,000 and tenderness of land for such an institution in that city, and it is hoped that there will be found some one of New England generosity enough to do likewise. There are three reasons which the women's club may supply: a home for boys from three to twelve years of age; one for children from eighteen months to three years of age; and one for babies who are diseased so that they cannot be admitted into infant asylums. There should be more boarding-houses for homes for young working girls. These should be homes in every sense of the word.

ELLIS' IRON BITTERS

Having used your Iron Bitter, in my practice, I can testify to its superior tonic properties for invigorating the appetite and promoting digestion. I can unhesitatingly recommend it in cases of general debility and dyspepsia, and in conditions of the system requiring the use of a ferruginous tonic. Its agreeable flavor must recommend it to all.

Yours, Respectfully,
